

The 2012 Lembeh Fish & Critter Hunt

With Ned & Anna DeLoach, June 2012, Lembeh Strait Indonesia

Want to learn all about marine life? Then there's no better place to be than at Eco Divers Resort Lembeh in June 2012. Ned & Anna DeLoach, co-authors of the best-selling series of marine identification field guides including Reef Fish Identification - Tropical Pacific and Reef Creature Identification - Tropical Pacific, and the marine life column Encounters in Alert Diver magazine, and Critter Hunt in Scuba Diving, will be running FREE week-long workshops on reef fish and invertebrate identification, behavior and photography.

The week's activities include:

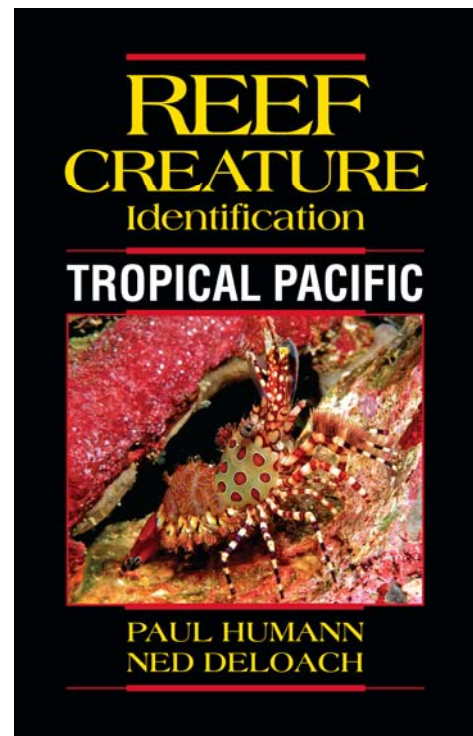

- Reef fish and invertebrate identification and behavior
- Daily underwater fish and critter hunts for the area's most celebrated species.

Underwater Photo/Video Workshop:

- How to capture memorable marine life portraits
- Tips on getting close to elusive subjects
- Waiting for the right moment
- Framing your subject

Special Nightly Presentations include:

- Cephalopod Behavior – The Outrageous Antics of Octopus, Cuttlefish and Squid
- Symbiosis and Camouflage: Hiding in Plain Sight
- The Diverse Reproductive Behavior of Reef Fishes

Many of the photographs of species included in Reef Creature Identification - Tropical Pacific were taken in Lembeh Strait

We guarantee that after spending an energizing week of fun and learning with a group of like-minded friends, diving will never be the same! Be sure to ▶book today to secure your place.

Read ▶here about Ned and Anna's most recent Lembeh adventure.